

Cleaning & Hygiene in Schools & Universities

How important is it for schools & universities to have a cleaning regime in place both front and back of house?

Any activity that is undertaken regularly will benefit from having proper and effective procedures in place, and cleaning is no exception. A well organised, structured and planned cleaning regime using the right products, equipment and process will enable the people responsible for cleaning to complete their work quickly, effectively and to agreed standards.

More specifically cleaning fulfils at least three mission-critical business requirements.

- First, it helps to ensure a clean and hygienic environment that protects the health and well-being of students, staff and visitors. This is particularly true in any facility that serves food.
- Second, it enhances the appearance of facilities to create a pleasant environment for everyone using those facilities.
- Third, it helps to maintain and protect valuable infrastructure to ensure maximum useful life, prevent unnecessary expenditure and delay or eliminate replacement costs.
